

Nadja

Respect for tradition

Even though Nadja has absolutely no background in farming, she knows from her partner how much effort and energy is needed to manage the Wiesemannhof farm, which is located at an altitude of 1,250 metres, and make it fit for the future. She sees working at the ancestral farm in Antholz as perfectly natural and finds it extremely rewarding.

Wiesemannhof farm in Antholz Niedertal

Wiesemannhof farm in Antholz is an ancestral farm that has been managed by the Oberhauser family for 10 generations. Some years ago, the farm switched to organic farming. In the summer the cows graze in the farm's meadows. In the winter they are fed hay from the family's pasture located 2,000 m above sea level. Wiesemannhof farm, with five apartments, offers plenty of space for holidaymakers.